COMPANY OVERVIEW

Piv's Engineering take pride in all areas of their work, whether it is piping fabrication or installation. Their experienced and knowledgeable staff offer valuable advice and assistance. Problems in steel fabrication can be costly, in both time and money, but Piv's Engineering know that planning and precision workmanship can make all the difference to the end product.

JOB COMMANDER REVIEW

"Piv's Engineering constructs, installs and maintains all kinds of steel structures. We have been using Job Commander since 2017, and if I had not put Job Commander in place when I did, I would not have this business today.

It was very easy to transition. As soon as I started with Job Commander I was able to reduce my team by two people immediately and this saved me something like $250k per year. We could collect the hours of the staff and know how much we make on each job, and we increased efficiency based on that information. It tells me if mistakes are made, and who was working on what job.

I like to buy local, so being an Australian company is important, and support is only a phone call away, I always get help with no time lost".
